HILTON HOTEL REFURBISHMENT CASE STUDY

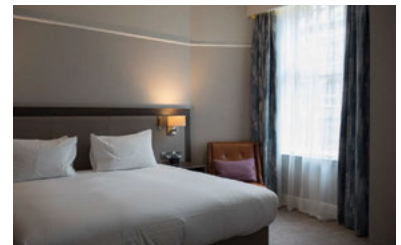

A Grade A listed building, the Hilton Hotel takes its place as one of the most dominant examples of Georgian Architecture in Edinburgh's Old Town.

Works included full structural scaffolding, stone repairs, replacement and repair of timber windows, roof repairs and structural repairs.

With the hotel remaining at 70% capacity throughout the works, coupled with multi occupancy Retail units at street level, this congested city centre site required to be micro managed throughout the entire duration.

Key challenges of this project were overcome by constant communication with the Hotel Management & Tenants alike to minimise disruption as far as practicably possible.
